Benvueu. a single self-adjoint extension of the symmetric operator $-\Delta^D$ in $L^2(\Delta)$ is $-\Delta + V$ (see, e.g., [M Section 3.1]). [5]: For more details, see [B p. 4, Remark 3.1.4]. [6]: Note that $C_c^\infty(X)$ is dense in $\{\mathcal{D}\}_\theta$ in σ -weak topology and in $\{\mathcal{D}\}_\theta^+$ in norm topology. Heterogeneous nucleation in microdroplets: effects of surface tension and composition. We use a phase-field simulation technique to determine the nucleation properties of water-in-oil microdroplets from isothermal to finite temperature. We determine the nucleation rate with respect to both the critical radius and critical supersaturation, as well as the nucleation temperature.

Depending on the values of the supersaturation and surface tension, we find that the nucleation probability may be enhanced or suppressed by a factor of several hundred. We find that the temperature of nucleation is determined by the interplay of the Kelvin length and the size of the largest droplet in the microstructure.

optical fiber core and a substantially concentric cladding, whereby a drawn optical fiber is deposited on the optical preform. It is also known that a drawn optical fiber can be used in the form of a preform for drawing another optical fiber.

It has been proposed in U.S. Pat. No. 4,995,619 to apply particulate material to the external surfaces of an optical preform to provide protection to the preform and to provide polishing of the external surfaces thereof. It is also known that an optical fiber can be drawn into a polished metal tip made of a powdered form of stainless steel. In U.S. Pat. No. 5,264,462 an optical fiber is drawn into a preform having a substantially centrally located core including a polycrystalline quartz body and a substantially concentrically disposed cladding body, wherein in the cladding body there are at least one reinforcing member of a low melting point glass. It is proposed to form the above-mentioned at least one reinforcing member from a low melting point glass by incorporating a reinforcing member formed from such a low melting point glass in an outer cladding which is subsequently drawn into the preform. A polish which can be applied to an optical fiber is disclosed in U.S. Pat. No. 5,461,541 which comprises a particulate material which is a mixture of particles of silica and particles of fluorine-containing silica. In an embodiment, the particles of silica and fluorine-containing silica are mixed with a frit to form a frit material, and the frit material is in the form of a plurality of discrete particles having a size of about 0.1-5.0 micron (0.004-0.25 mm). It has been found in practice that glass particles which have a length/diameter ratio of 1:10 or greater are difficult to remove from the hole in which the glass
